Non-profit groups are invited to share their stories of successes and struggles for a new resource guide aimed at helping them prosper.

The Centre for Research and Education in Human Services and the Social Planning Council of Cambridge and North Dumfries have partnered to develop a guide for Waterloo Region non-profit groups.

Joanna Ochocka, co-ordinator of the centre, said such a manual will be a vital tool for groups who deal with environmental issues, social issues, arts and culture, recreation, or health.

The guide -- available next summer -- will also include suggestions for maintaining programs and services.

A form for non-profit groups to share their stories is available at www.crehs.on.ca
Deadline for submissions is Dec. 9.
